We will be meeting in person at the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints, 3474 W. Southern St., Lecanto on the second Tuesday of the month at 10:00 a.m. THERE WILL BE NO ZOOM in January and February, but in March there WILL be Zoom.

UPCOMING PROGRAMS

January 9 – ‘What’s Black & White & Read Online: Using Newspapers in Genealogy’ Presented by Diana Crisman Smith – She talks about why using newspapers in genealogical research is helpful and important. She then talks about some of the best sources for newspapers online and how to use them.

February 13 – “Think You Know the Census – Think Again” Presented by Peggy Jude – Discover the untapped potential of the U.S. Federal Census in your genealogical research. This presentation delves into the art of effectively utilizing census records, uncovering the secrets hidden in plain sight. Are you struggling to locate ancestors in the census or wondering if you’ve missed crucial details? Beyond the standard census, learn about the wealth of alternative sources and census substitutes that can bridge gaps and provide new insights into your family history.

March 12 – “Introduction to Family Tree Maker – Building Your Family Tree” Presented by Mark Olsen.

Join us for an introduction to the current version of Family Tree Maker. We will discuss Family Tree Maker and what makes it different from other genealogy products and software. We will focus on a quick walk through parts of the various family tree building features from how to get and install the software and move on to basic use and creating or downloading your very own family tree. We will discuss how it works with Ancestry.com and with FamilySearch and be happy to discuss all your questions.

We will also discuss Family Tree Maker partner products – Charting Companion and Family Book Creator - both are amazing plug-ins that can help you create incredible charts, graphs, and books.

This class is for all levels of genealogists whether you are just getting started or very experienced.

Family History Center

Mary Ann Machonkin

The hours of the Family History Center (FHC) are 10 a.m. – 2 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. The FHC is located in the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints. For 18 years I used to work there, and I can assure you that there is no pressure to join the church, and I am NOT a Mormon.

You can use their computer to search on FindMyPast, Fold3, My Heritage and Ancestry World Heritage at no cost to you. If you would like help, there will be someone there to help you. Just bring your password to www.FamilySearch.org. That is another FREE website that you should be using.

More Than Five Million Records from the State of Maryland Are Now Online

Dick Eastman 9 Nov 2023

<https://archive.org/details/maryland-state-archives?sort=title>

We at Reclaim The Records are so proud to finally announce one of our largest record acquisitions to date: millions of vital records spanning over one hundred years of history for the state of Maryland.

These records have never previously been publicly available online anywhere else — not on FamilySearch and not on Ancestry and not on MyHeritage and not on [insert some other genealogy website here] — except for some records that had only been available at the Maryland State Archives internal website, if you happened to be sitting in their building in Annapolis and using their in-house computers, or on their external website, but only if those records were more than a hundred years old.

This announcement is groundbreaking for us at RTR. Not only is this an unusually large cache of materials for one of our records projects, but this time, our acquisition was not limited to a basic name and date index — although we did get those, too! — but in addition to the decades of vital records indices, we also got the digital images of the actual birth, marriage, and death certificates for the state of Maryland. Yep, the real certificates. And now we've put them online, free!

And this story isn't a pitch to subscribe to anything because we don't sell data, we release it. There isn't any login or password for these files, and you don't have to pay a dime to a government facility, nor to a paywalled corporate-run site. These records are all now just plain free. You can browse them, download them, or do whatever you like with them.

A Million New Records from Missouri

Dick Eastman 17 Oct 2023

The following is a notice written by Reclaim the Records:

Updated public datasets now available for more years of the Missouri Birth Index and Missouri Death Index, including the first pandemic era death files

Hi again from Reclaim The Records! Today we're announcing a big update to two important record sets that we initially put online a few years ago. Big, like about a million records, including the (or one of the) first-ever full state death data files available from a state department of health from the pandemic era.

And as usual, we're releasing it all for FREE use, re-use, downloading, uploading, remixing, and — best of all — for searches on our free websites, including searching by surnames, given names, soundalike names, common nicknames, close spelling variants, wildcard searches, names combined with dates, and even searching by specific date ranges with no name data at all. Yay, open data!

Online VA Memorial Adds the Names and Stories of Millions of Veterans, Service Members

Dick Eastman 6 Nov 2023

The names and legacies of nearly 5 million veterans and service members have been added to an online database operated by the Department of Veterans Affairs, doubling the number of individuals whose military records and contributions are commemorated, the agency announced Thursday.

Online VA Memorial Adds the Names and Stories of Millions of Veterans, Service Members (Cont'd)

The Veterans Legacy Memorial, www.vlm.cem.va.gov which was launched in 2019, is an interactive VA website that honors the men and women who served in the U.S. military, dating to the Revolutionary War.

“Keeping alive the legacy of veterans who have served is a personal mission,” said Matt Quinn, undersecretary for memorial affairs at the VA. “You see my grandfather, my father, my brother and three of my uncles are interred in veterans’ cemeteries. Their grave marker should not be the final remembrance.”

The newest addition of 5 million names to the site represents veterans and service members interred at private cemeteries across the country, the VA said.

The online memorial honors veterans and service members with individual web pages that users can visit to submit photos, post tributes, and learn about their military service.

Service members at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia, the nation’s oldest national cemetery, are among the veterans identified on the website.

The VA has used public databases to help identify service members and veterans and to provide background on their military records.
